

Character Profile

Villain

The villain's name is:

Do they have any distinguishing features?

The villain looks like:

How does your villain speak? What do they say?

The villain speaks like:

What is their goal? What do they want?

The villain wants:

What do they do? How do they get their goal?

The villain acts like:

Do others like them, laugh at them or feel scared?

Other people think the villain is:

Author says . . .

Think about the strengths and weaknesses you give each character. Does your hero have a secret phobia of spiders? Is your villain close to their gran?

INSPIRATION STATION

Descriptive details can give the reader an instant impression of a character.

Chudleigh Pomeroy came storming in, his toupee askew and his round face red with indignation.

— MORTAL ENGINES by Philip Reeve

Malfoy gave Professor Lupin an insolent stare, which took in the patches on his robes and the dilapidated suitcase.

— HARRY POTTER AND THE PRISONER OF AZKABAN by J. K. Rowling

